

OCEAN ENDEAVOUR ANTARCTICA VOYAGES

BOOK WITH ASSURANCE: POLICY FOR COVID-19

COVID-19 is a dynamic situation that continues to develop and impact the travel industry around the world. We understand the concerns of our clients in booking their Antarctica adventure. While we trust that the current health emergency will be resolved before our season begins in November 2022, your peace of mind and safety is our main concern.

If you are unable to join your voyage due to COVID related illness that affects you or a close contact, or due to government-imposed travel restrictions, we will re-accommodate you on a future Ocean Endeavour Antarctic voyage within the next 12 months from your voyage's departure date.

Future voyage, cabin or berth must be the same or higher value than the original, with any difference in price paid at the time of full payment. Voyage can be transferred to any voyage within 12 months of the departure date of your original voyage, subject to availability. Applies to F.I.T bookings, please contact us for our policy around group bookings.*

As there will be further developments in the matter, we will continue to update our policies to adapt to this fast-changing situation and will endeavour to keep you informed.
