DAY 2: Genovesa, Darwins Bay & Prince Phillips steps

Today sail to the beautiful and remote Genovesa Island. This island is a paradise for bird lovers with an estimated 200,000 red-footed boobies living on this island. This morning you will visit Darwin Bay, a birdwatching paradise. The island hosts various bird species, including swallow-tailed and lava gulls, mockingbirds, yellow-crowned night herons, lava herons, Galapagos doves, and yellow warblers. A short trail will take you to red-footed booby and great frigatebird nests. You can also explore a tidal lagoon with playful sea lions and enjoy breathtaking views from a cliff. You may even have time to snorkel with sea lions and for sea turtles. In the afternoon hike the steep 81-foot stairway leading to a cliff offering stunning views over the bay. Hiking the Palo Santo trail, visitors can spot Nazca and red-footed boobies, mockingbirds, finches, wedge-rumped storm petrels, and short-eared owls. Later you will have the opportunity to do some deep-water snorkelling, offering a chance to see unique marine wildlife, including hammerhead sharks.

DAY 3: Bartolme Island & Bowditch Point

Today's excursion includes a hike to the summit on Bartolme Island, offering stunning panoramic views of the island and nearby volcanic formations, including Pinnacle Rock. You will also get a great perspective of the Galápagos Islands' volcanic origins. In the morning, you have the opportunity to snorkel around Pinnacle Rock, an excellent spot to see Galápagos penguins, sea lions, sea turtles, and various fish. In the afternoon, you'll visit Bowditch Point, one of the more remote, less-visited sites in the Galapagos. This is another excellent snorkeling area with giant schools of black-striped salema, parrotfish, and Mexican hogfish, or you could try kayak or stand-up paddleboarding instead. Afterwards, enjoy some time relaxing on the beach or exploring the area.
